PROTON THERAPY: THE MARKET IS COMING UP!

CSIntell will publish the world's first Proton Therapy market report.

Proton Therapy exists since decades, but there is a lack of truly good market and economic information, compiled in one report, on a concise and understandable way.

Since years there have been numerous articles about proton therapy, providing some data on equipment's pricing or potential market size. A large bank had once estimated that the Proton Therapy market should reach US$ 2 billion and others said there is a need for more than 100 large PT centers, all this in US only. Most of the time those articles were either related to the US alone or were not clear enough to be really meaningful. Some articles were comparing cost of large and small proton therapy facilities without clearly stating that the number of patients that can be treated in both facilities are completely different.

Today there are about 50 proton therapy facilities worldwide and a limited number of companies able to build such equipment, with some new comers in the past few years. In the recent years we have seen more and more interests for this high-end therapy, with several new centers opening their doors or hospitals announcing the ordering of a proton therapy facility; not only in USA but also in the rest of the world. It might become the next big thing in cancer treatment as said by a number of proponents based on scientific studies that have been already done.

CSIntell believes it is the right moment to publish a world market report on proton therapy as the market is just coming up!

The Proton Therapy Global MarketR™ report will be a useful tool for industry insiders, finance professionals (analysts, investors), media, as well as potential new PT centers, etc... The report will be prepared by Paul-Emmanuel GOETHALS, MBA. Expected release date: before ASTRO 2012 (October 2012).
